The Daily Quote

"Forty-five House Republicans are urging House leadership to pass a long-term terrorism insurance (TRIA) reauthorization. Congress must vote to reauthorize TRIA by the end of the year or the program shuts down. 'We respectfully urge you to schedule action on a multi-year extension immediately,' the lawmakers wrote in the letter sent to House Speaker John Boehner (R-Ohio) and House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) on Monday obtained first by The Hill. The letter comes as Tea Partiers, led by House Financial Services Committee chairman Jeb Hensarling (R-Texas), have pushed for reforms to the program, which allows the government to front the costs after a catastrophic attack... Hensarling has indicated that a short-term, six- to nine- month TRIA extension might be necessary in lawmakers can't agree to a reauthorization deal with reforms... But the business community is balking at such a notion. And the 45 GOPers who signed Fincher's letter made that case to leadership. 'Businesses with terrorism coverage are being told that their coverage will end if Congress fails to act, causing the sort of uncertainty that hurts economic growth,' the lawmakers wrote. The letter shows the Republicans are divided on the issue. Business groups, backed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, supports a seven-year TRIA reauthorization bill that the Senate passed in July on a 93-4 vote."
